RESILIENCE

Complaints Policy

1. Our Approach

Quality and effectiveness sit at the heart of WholeMind Resilience decisions. We want to hear if something has gone wrong. Complaints help us improve, and we take every one seriously. This policy explains how to raise a complaint and what to expect from us.

2. How to Complain

Please email info@wholemindresilience.co.uk with details of your complaint. Regarding a complaint following purchase, please read the Terms and Conditions before submitting, to confirm your complaint pertains to non-delivery of our Terms and Conditions.

We accept complaints about any aspect of our services, including from members of the public, course participants, volunteers, freelance facilitators, and organisations we work with.

This includes complaints about how we handle your personal data. We will acknowledge a data protection complaint within 10 working days of receipt and respond without undue delay, in line with the Data (Use and Access) Act 2025 and our GDPR & Data Protection Policy.

If your complaint is about a safeguarding concern, please see our Safeguarding & Child Protection Policy instead, which sets out a dedicated process for those matters.

3. What Happens Next

- We will acknowledge your complaint within 10 working days.
- We aim to fully resolve complaints within 31 days (one calendar month) of receipt. If a complaint is complex and needs longer, we'll explain why and give you a revised timescale.
- We will investigate fairly, keep a confidential record, and let you know the outcome and any action taken.
- Should we receive a complaint, this will be raised to the Board at the next quarterly board meeting and, should investigation still be ongoing, added to the agenda for the following board meeting also, or, if needed, an interim board discussion will be arranged to review findings.

4. If You're Not Satisfied

WholeMind Resilience is led by a Founder/Executive Director, overseen by a Board of Directors. The Executive Director's decision on a complaint is deemed as final; however, the Board retains the right to challenge decisions and request that they are reviewed in line with this policy and/or our quality standards, should they feel the decision does not reflect the company policy.

If your complaint relates to WholeMind Resilience potentially acting unlawfully, misusing funds, or failing to meet its community interest purpose as a CIC, you can raise this with the Office of the Regulator of Community Interest Companies (the CIC Regulator) at any stage, via gov.uk. The CIC Regulator oversees whether WholeMind Resilience meets its obligations as a CIC — it does not act as a general complaints ombudsman for service quality, as no such ombudsman exists for CICs.

If your complaint involves a criminal matter, this should be reported to the police in the usual way.

5. Complaints About a Commissioned Service

Where your complaint relates to a service commissioned by another organisation (for example, an NHS body, local authority, or employer), you're welcome to raise it with us directly. If you would prefer to escalate it to the commissioning organisation, we can provide their relevant contact details on request.

6. Review

This policy is reviewed annually, or sooner if a complaint highlights a gap in the process.

7. Board Adoption
